Sixteen people recently completed AMSEA's 36th Marine Safety Instructor course in Seward, Alaska March 22 to 27, 1999. Class participants represented Alaska State Parks, Anchorage's U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office, Wrangell City Schools, U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Kenai National Park, Alaska Area Native Health Service, Bristol Bay gill netters, and the Taiwan Deep Sea Fishing Training Center.

The week-long course was held March 22-27, 1999 at the Alaska Vocational Technical Center (AVTEC). Participants and instructor-trainers alike came away with new ideas, skills and materials for instructing marine safety topics more effectively. This class was made possible with the assistance of AVTEC instructors and staff Jim Herbert, Dennis Lodge, Roger Mercer and Ivanka Banic, David Popken, and the warmth and hospitality of the Walker family.

The next AMSEA Marine Safety Instructor class will take place in Sitka, Alaska October 18-24, 1999. Contact AMSEA for details and an instructor questionnaire/registration form if you want to teach marine safety courses, or just want to sharpen your own safety skills.
